

U. S. FORCES ARE MOVING CLOSER TO WAR SCENES

While Kellogg Awaits Replies to Appeal for Conference

Washington, Feb. 4.—(AP)—As northern and southern Chinese forces fight themselves for a battle in the central Chekiang provinces with Shanghai as the possible ultimate goal, U. S. naval forces, including 1,450 marines, are being moved closer to the danger zones as a precautionary measure to provide protection to Americans.

Meanwhile, Secretary Kellogg is awaiting the reply which Eugene Chen, Chinese foreign minister, has said he would make in a few days to the American open invitation to both major Chinese factions for conferences looking to the drawing up of new equalization treaties with China.

While the cruisers Richmond, Marblehead and Cincinnati were steaming today from Balboa, Canal Zone, to join the American naval squadron in Chinese waters, 1,200 marines of the 4th regiment were en route from San Diego under orders to report to Admiral Williams, commander of the Asiatic fleet. An additional 250 marines will be drawn to the Shanghai area by Admiral Williams from forces now in the Philippines and due to arrive there from Guam.

SHANGHAI IN DOUBT

Shanghai, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Conflicting reports left Shanghai in doubt today as to the military situation south of here, where northern and southern troops have taken positions for a battle which is expected to determine possession of this city, control of the Yangtze valley and possibly the fate of the republic.

Headquarters of Marshal Sun Chuanfang, defender of the city, declared he was holding his own. Nationalist circles forecast his early collapse.

Missionaries arriving from the front in Chekiang province reported today that 500 of Marshal Sun's wounded soldiers reached Hangchow from his Yenchow front, crowding the Hangchow hospitals and necessitating the moving of overflow wounded to the southern Presbyterian Mission Hospital at Kinsing.

First Evidence of Battle

Appearance of the wounded to the rear of the lines of the defending army is the first evidence that the battle in Chekiang province had begun. The wounded men are but in more than 100 miles southwest of here. Sun's forces were entrenched along the Yehsien river, using Yenchow as a headquarters. The last known position of the Cantonese indicated they were entering Hangchow, 25 miles northwest of Yenchow.

It was learned yesterday that the two armies had clashed and that the central section of Sun's forces had been thrust back in the vicinity of Yenchow.

BRITISH CABINET MEETS

London, Feb. 4.—(AP)—A special cabinet committee has been formed to deal with the Chinese situation. It is understood this committee will include Premier Stanley Baldwin, Sir Austen Chamberlain, Foreign Secretary, and the Earl of Balfour, lord president of the council.

Negotiations at Hankow are virtually at a standstill through the insistence of Eugene Chen, Cantonese foreign minister, that there shall be no compromise of British forces at Shanghai. All is now calm in the concession city where serious anti-British rioting in December led the British authorities to take precautionary measures.

To Consider Action

The cabinet meeting has been called to determine on a plan to meet Chen's attitude. One suggestion standing out among the others is that an attempt be made to placate the Cantonese leader by promising there will be no extensive landing of troops at Shanghai unless freedom of movement make it necessary.

The national joint council of the labor party today cabled to Eugene Chen, foreign minister of the Cantonese government in China, reaffirming the labor party's declaration of Jan. 27, in which it promised to do everything possible to procure Chinese independence.

SHELTON'S CASE GIVEN TO JURORS DURING MORNING

Defense's Alibi Evidence Discussed by the Judge

Quincy, Ill., Feb. 4.—(AP)—The case of Earl, Carl and Bernie Shelton, on a charge of robbing the mails was given to the jury at 10:43 o'clock this morning after hearing instructions from Judge Pritchard, in which he outlined the case, explaining the four counts of the indictment, the first of which charged robbery of the mails and assault on the mail messenger, James Mathias, with a deadly weapon, Jan. 27, 1925, putting his life in jeopardy; the second, assault with intent to rob; third, receiving and concealing the stolen property; and the fourth, having unlawfully in their possession stolen property knowing it to be stolen.

The chief defense of the defendants, said the court, was an alibi, meaning they were so circumstanced as to its having been impossible for them to be present. If true, the alibi is a complete and perfect defense. An alibi, said the court, is also difficult to disprove, and for this reason it should be given careful and serious consideration. He said there was a serious conflict in the evidence, and the jury should take into consideration the testimony of the witnesses who have sworn falsely, and if this be the case, then that evidence should be disregarded, except so far as it is corroborated by others. The last injunction of the court was that the jury should remember that the Collinsville robbery was the only matter to be considered.

GOVERNMENT IS HOLDING BIRGER FOR CONSPIRACY

Prevents His Arrest on Murder Charge in Quincy Court

Quincy, Ill., Feb. 4.—(AP)—United States Marshal James E. McClure and Dist. Attorney Walter M. Prowine, both stated this morning Charles Birger is in custody here, being held as a material witness for the government and that at the conclusion of the Shelton case, he would be arrested on a charge of conspiracy, but what the case is, they refused to say.

That Birger was immune from arrest under a state warrant so long as he was a government witness had not been disputed. Sheriff Pritchard of Franklin County, has been in the city for several days with a state warrant charging Birger with the murder conspiracy, but that the case is would not be revealed. There were rumors it had to do with the Collinsville case, but this could not be confirmed. That there is a warrant was not denied.

BUSINESS MEN IN CONFERENCES TO STUDY PROBLEMS

Extensive Investigation Being Made at Springfield Meet

Chicago, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Eight more business and agricultural leaders appeared Thursday before the business men's commission on agriculture in session here since Tuesday, to give their ideas on the adjustments necessary to secure a proper balance between agriculture and other industry. The commission is making a study of all phases of agricultural questions to determine what the national condition is. Its findings, when completed, are to be analyzed and presented to the country as a whole with recommendations which it is hoped will be recognized and accepted by the various interests for the formulation of a national policy as to what can and ultimately should be done toward remedying existing difficulties and stabilizing the farming industry.

Among those who have appeared at the Chicago hearing are J. H. Blair, deputy governor federal reserve bank, Chicago district; Jay Chapin of the Associated Corn Products Manufacturers; Chicago; Eugene Funk, farmer, Peoria; Illinois; H. G. Brownell, merchant, Chicago; P. C. Taff, Chicago, representing national committee on boys and girls clubs work; Dr. Van Norman, American dry milk institute, Chicago; and Earl Smith, president of the Illinois Agricultural Association, Chicago.

Hearings are behind closed doors. Earl Smith, president of the Illinois Agricultural Association, however, has given his opinion to the public. He believes the best possibilities for the stabilization of agriculture.

Findings, when completed, probably three or four months hence, will be given to all chambers of commerce, farm organizations, and other groups concerned with agriculture, commerce and industry.

SKILLED YOUTHS WATCH TRADE OF WORLD FOR U. S.

And Uncle Sam Finds It Difficult to Keep Fine Personnel

Washington.—(AP)—From the jostling, colorful bazaar of the Orient, to the quiet reaches of Threadneedle street, the world's trade is watched by a foreign service squad of American observers.

A force of young Americans, enlisted under Secretary Hoover from American schools and business houses, has been mobilized for the needs of the nation's growing foreign commerce, and guided to a career of both romance and research that has won the respectful attention of business men.

The young men in the observing corps may find themselves in Aden one day, in Singapore the next, and in Bucharest the third. His duties will range from getting a new agent for the sale of American bicycles in Calcutta to tracing out the impact on international trade of a new foreign combination of steel rail makers.

There is every appeal to the semi-adventurous in the service, yet there is considerable difficulty in keeping men at all of its posts. "That difficulty is not so strange," says O. P. Hopkins, foreign service director of the bureau of foreign service in charge of its personnel. This man who has made good as trade commissioner assistant trade commissioner or commercial attaché for the government at a salary of $2,000 to $3,000 a year is an attractive recruit for the American importing and exporting house which is actually engaged in business, Mr. Hopkins explains.

"We try to keep our staff made up of two kinds of men," he said. "One is the graduate of the schools of economics and business maintained by the larger universities. The other man is the chap with actual commercial experience."

"Our best men are constantly being picked off by the corporations. Promotions are rapid. When the new applicant comes in, he is first given a few months work within the department here."

STATE HOSPITAL WILL HAVE POWER ELEVATOR SOON

Needed Improvement in New Building Authorized by Dept.

Dr. Warren G. Murray, supervising officer at the Dixon state hospital, has received word of an important improvement to be made in the new hospital building now in course of completion. The state department of public works and buildings at Springfield notified Dr. Murray that an appropriation amounting to $4,000 had been passed, the amount to be expended for the purchase and installation of an electric elevator in the hospital building. The work is to be completed by the first of April.

A force of men is now engaged in finishing the second floor of the hospital building and all of its departments, including a large X-ray, which will be complete in detail. The work is to be completed and that section of the building ready for occupancy by April 4.

Several changes have been made at the institution within the past few weeks. Miss Margaret Wipperfurth has been assigned to the institution as physical culture director. Miss Mildred Bishop, who has held the position of psychologist has been transferred to the Lincoln state school and colony and Miss Anna Polkowski has taken up her duties at Dixon.

Miss Hattie Leveaux who has served at the Kankakee state hospital in the capacity of nurse for the past eight years has been transferred to Dixon and Miss Agnes Gleason, who has held that position at the local institution for the past year has been transferred to Kankakee.

OLD MASTERS

O, yet we trust that somehow good will be the final goal of ill, To pang of nature, sins of will, Defects of doubt, and taints of blood: That nothing walks with aimless feet; That not one life shall be destroyed Or cast as rubbish to the void When God hath made the pile complete.

That not a worm is cloven in vain; That not a moth with vain desire Is shelved in a fruitless fire, Or but subserves another's gain.

Behold, we know not anything; I can but trust that good shall fall At last—far off—at last, to all, And every winter change to spring.

So runs my dream; but what am I? An infant crying in the night; An infant crying for a light, And with no language, but a cry, Tennyson: from "In Memoriam."

Former Dixon Girl Has Fine Position

Copies of two illustrated advertisements which appeared in leading French papers, written by Mrs. Ethel MacEntee of Paris, formerly Miss Ethel Sterling of Dixon, extolling the merits of "Poudre Tokalon," have been received by friends here. One of the advertisements is of Mrs. MacEntee dancing with the Prince of Wales and both have pictures of her.

The former Dixon young lady is head of publicity for the firm which manufactures the toilet articles and also handles all the foreign advertising for the company. Her friends here to whom she sends her best wishes will rejoice in her success. The firm which Mrs. MacEntee represents does an extensive business and a large amount of advertising and her position is one of much responsibility.

Charming Bridge-Luncheon Two Days

Mrs. Grover Gehant, 611 Galena avenue, was hostess on two days this week, Wednesday and Thursday, entertaining at two most delightful bridge luncheons, at her home. There were guests each day for six tables, and they represented the towns of Franklin Grove, Ashton, Oregon and Dixon. Spring flowers graced the quartet tables where the delicious three-course luncheons were served with bridge following. Sweet peas, freesia and calendulas added color and fragrance to the scene.

The high score for bridge on Wednesday was awarded to Mrs. Will Fry at Mrs. Z. W. Moss won the second favor, and Mrs. Floyd Eno the consolation favor.

The favor for the high score at bridge was awarded on Thursday to Mrs. Ann Wilson, while Mrs. Lloyd Lewis was awarded the second favor and Miss Orva Moore of Ashton received the consolation favor. Both afternoons were greatly enjoyed by everyone present.

WOMEN ATTEND MEETING CHADWICK CLUB

A number of Dixon and Sterling women attended the meeting of the Chadwick Woman's club yesterday. Mrs. H. M. Rasch driving her car to the meeting. In the Rasch car were Mesdames Sipes and Cone of Sterling; Mesdames Smith and Hey of Dixon. Mrs. Charles Hey appeared before the Chadwick Woman's Club and read a paper "The Lure of the Garden," which was received with much enthusiasm, the ladies appreciating it very much. Mrs. Hey's paper is such a success because of the fact that she writes from first hand information, as probably no woman knows more about gardening than she does, both flowers and vegetables.

Delightful Meeting at The Kindig Home

Mrs. James Kindig's home was the scene of a most pleasant meeting of the Wesleyan Missionary Society of the M. E. church Thursday, when nineteen members and three visitors gathered there for the regular meeting.

Mrs. B. H. Cleaver, president of the society, presided, opening the meeting with song and a circle of prayer. The reading of the minutes, report of the Reading superintendent, and letters of importance, followed, one letter reminding all of the Evangelistic rally to be held in Sterling, Feb. 11th, calling for a large delegation from the Miss Lola Fischer sang "The Prayer Perfect" by James Whitcomb Riley. Miss Hazel Rust playing her accompaniment.

A vocal duet "The Grail to Long Ago," was sung by the little Misses Avis Ortgiesen and Phyllis Wells, accompanied by Miss Fannie Mae Strauss.

St. James Aid Elected Officers

The St. James Ladies' Aid Society held the January and February meetings at the spacious home of Mrs. Chas. Briemer. These meetings were very much enjoyed as they were all day meetings with sumptuous picnic dinners served at noon. A large number of members and guests were present at both meetings. At the January meeting the ladies entertained the men and also put on a very good program. The February meeting was strictly business as this was the time for election.

The meeting was opened with a song and scripture reading from the 15th chapter of Proverbs. After this the treasurer gave her report. We find that at the end of the year we still have a very neat sum on hand. The election results were as follows:

President—Mrs. Leon Burkett.
Vice President—Mrs. Garfield Topper.

Secretary—Mrs. Clarence Bothe.
Assistant Secretary—Mrs. Norman Miller.

Treasurer—Mrs. James Dick.

The following committees were appointed:

Social—Chairman, Anna Bothe; Dana Green, Assistants, Anna Lahmen, Anna Cramer, Alice Burkett, Edith Bothe.

Program—Ida Lideman, Edna Topper, Bess Miller.
Flowers—Lulu Patterson, Ida Burkett.

Sewing—Alice Bahen, Alice Burkett, Ona Green.
The meeting was closed by all repeating the Lord's prayer.

The Conscience Fund packages were then distributed and every one was delighted with their package. Everyone went home very much delighted over the affairs of the day and voting Mrs. Briemer a very royal hostess.

Mrs. Harry Patterson invited the society to meet at her home 104 Lee Center with an all day meeting, Feb. 16th.

Dixon church, the other letter regarding "The World Day of Prayer for Missions," Friday, March 4th, when all the churches are planning for union services all over the land.

The offering was then taken, and Mrs. Mundy took charge of the program, "India Advancing," reading the Scripture lesson from John 8: 31-36. Mrs. Harry Stauffer gave the devotionals by Ellie K. Payne, "The Old New Freedom." "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free."

But what of the uncounted millions who have never had the chance to see His face? Who have never had the chance to be free? It is Christ's desire that everyone shall hear and accept the freedom He offers.

Mrs. Ward Hall gave a most interesting paper, "Natives at Work in India."

Mrs. Cleaver called for the "Hidden Answers," and items of news on China were given in answer to roll call. A number of hymns were sung during the program, ending with the benediction. Delicious refreshments were served by the committee.

Please bear in mind the first Thursday of the month is Missionary day and aim to keep that day free from any other engagement. Rather let us say on that day as did Christ, "I must be about my Father's business." Th missionary need our prayers and our help we can give, and we owe it to them and to the Master, for whose sake they left home for the uttermost parts of the world.

Wesleyan Missionary Society Meeting

The Wesleyan Missionary Society of the M. E. church held its Thank offering meeting at the church Tuesday evening with a picnic supper preceding it.

Mrs. Oscar Cline, the president, called the meeting to order. Mrs. E. C. Lumsden had charge of the devotions. After the business meeting a delightful program was given as follows:

Piano Solo—Olive Gartman.
Reading—Mrs. Henry Leydig.
Violin Solo—Miss Josephine Miller.
With Miss Frances Acker at piano Rev. A. W. Carlson gave the Thank offering address, "What Christianity Means to the World."

Kingdom-Mt. Union Aid Soc. Meeting

The Kingdom-Mt Union Ladies Aid Society meeting on Tuesday afternoon in a farewell party for Mrs. Charles Hanson, who is moving to Ashton, proved a most enjoyable affair. The day was ideal and aided in the large attendance, twenty-two members and friends being present. The afternoon was spent in visiting.

The president, Mrs. Theodore Hintz, presented each of the members who are moving away from the community, with a beautiful frosted candy jar from the Aid. Those receiving jars were Mrs. Charles Hanson, Mrs. Charles Grobe and Mrs. Harry Klapprodt. Mrs. John Hamilton, a past president, presented Mrs. Hanson with a pretty crocheted rug.

During the afternoon the hosts served delicious refreshments. Later all departed for their homes wishing Mrs. Hanson success and happiness in her new home.

Surprised Glenn Millhouse Monday

On Monday evening a company of friends and relatives numbering about twenty-five called at the home of Glenn Millhouse at his home near Sterling and gave him a very happy surprise honoring his birthday. The callers had with them a very substantial and appetizing picnic supper which all enjoyed very much. Games and music were the diversions for the evening and all had such a good time that they were loath to depart when the clock pointed to the small hours of the morning.

MRS. MORGAN IS A JUSTICE OF THE PEACE

Mrs. Margaret Morris Morgan, who was in Dixon Tuesday to attend the funeral of her grandmother, Mrs. James H. Morris, was able to remain but a few hours, because of her many and pressing business activities in Sewickley, Pa., where she is Justice of the Peace. Many cases are tried before her daily, and she is indeed, a very clever business woman.

MEMORY'S MAGIC.

Our memories are magic painters. They gild the past with a luster that grows brighter with the fleeting years.

Fifty-seven years ago John O'Herlihy left his home at Toledo, O., to follow trails of fortune and adventure in the far west. He vanished into the haze of the Black Hills, and for a half century no more was heard of him.

But as he strayed, he carried a lovely picture with him. In the long nights he saw the little farmhouse, the rolling Ohio acres and the forest that bordered the brook where he used to lie and vision the world beyond. The picture held for him the charm of vanished sweetness. Some day he would go back. Some day he would rediscover the beauties that his memory treasured.

Eighteen years ago, the family, thinking him dead, erected two tombstones to his memory in the family lot in a Toledo cemetery. Four years ago the last sister died, leaving the family fortune to the church.

Recently the wanderer returned to Toledo—to find the home of his boyhood gone forever. He came back as a stranger into an unfamiliar land. Where the farm had been there was now 'Glendale Avenue.' A few relatives and old friends recognized him by his resemblance to his father.

The picturesque little lake port he had cherished through all those years had grown into a bustling city. Industry had grown up around his romantic picture. It was not the place he had dreamed of. This was just like any other big city he had passed in his years of roaming.

His nephews asked him to stay. But he could not. This was not what he had come back for. This was not the rosy picture he had carried in his memory.

So, as penniless as he had returned, he departed again. The only address he gave was "Oklahoma and points west." He took his memories with him—back to a place where they wouldn't be rudely shattered.

MISSOURI NEEDS A SOLOMON.

Arkansas keeps its cherished name. Italy has its Mussolini. California's broad acres still produce oranges and its studios develop the stars that flicker on the silver screen.

In like manner Missouri has its beloved dogs. Dogs have helped to make men famous in that state, as witness Champ Clark, defender of the houn' dog; the present representative Harry B. Hawes, whose petting of houn' dogs helped win him promotion to the Senate recently, and Senator Vest, whose "dog speech" still is regarded as something of a congressional classic.

Now Reynolds county, Missouri, comes into the world's news with a "kinda disappearin' dog," whose ownership has given the courts something to think about. For years litigation over "Old Joe," a hound of uncommon canniness, has been in progress, with a former sheriff and a farmer each claiming him.

Already the court costs have amounted to $2500. A jury has awarded the dog to the farmer, but the former officer announces he'll appeal.

It seems that "Old Joe" liked 'em both, and used to divide his time between the contending parties, spending a few weeks at this fireside, then "disappearin'" and checking in at the other.

Missouri is a great state. Now, with a houn' dog that leads a double life, it is a greater one.

Coolidge requests machinery for dehumidizing the stagnant air in the Senate chamber.

Can he mean muzzles for the boys?

Or, maybe, it's the Democrats he's after.

Senators have complained that they have felt "depressed and tired" after a day in the Senate. Read the Congressional Record and you'll see the reason.

But hot air by any other name would smell as sweet.

Headlines you never see: "Heflin Silent as Foes Abuse Him."

Now they're saying Gladstone was a Don Juain. We expect to hear next that Napoleon Bonaparte was a Gigolo.

The Moros are fighting Uncle Sam's tax collectors. Now that the income tax valentines are coming around, you can expect to hear from several Moros in this country.

Soft collars for warm weather and sports only is fashion's new ruling. Out of the trenches by July 4th, boys.

How about indoor sports? What color pants-guards should a parcheesi player wear?

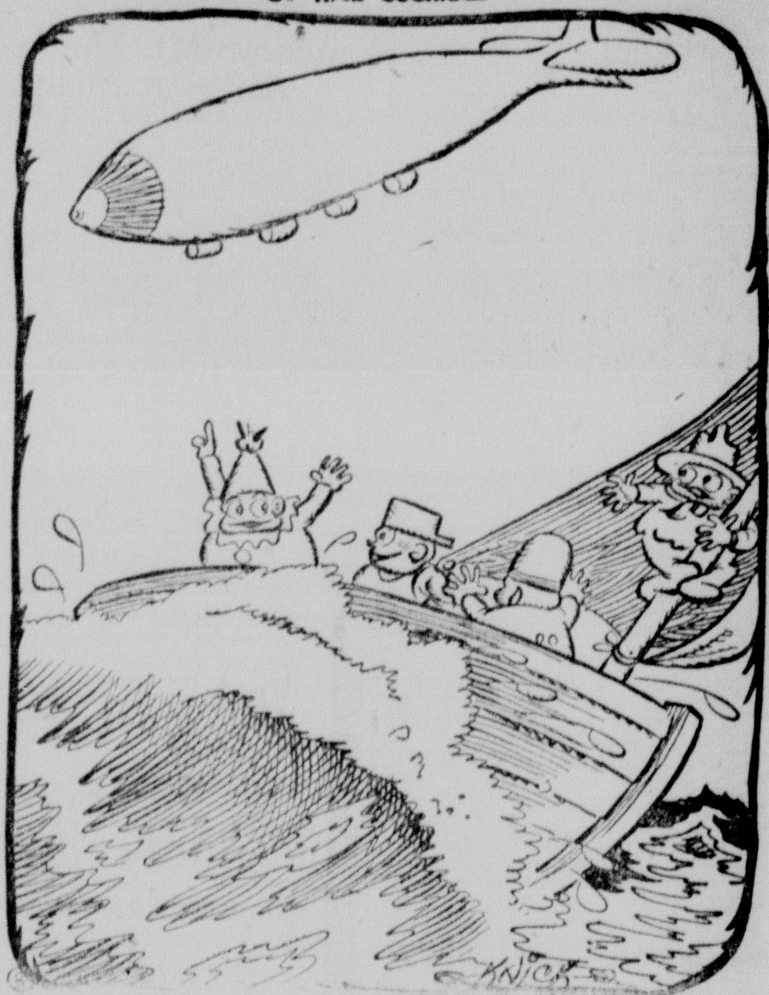

Coolidge sent Congress a note on Nicaragua and took a two-hour snooze while it was being read. Some of the congressmen did, too.

Illinois electric railways carry more than 1,900,000,000 passengers yearly.

A Kansas man lost control of his automobile because a mouse crawled up his leg. Perhaps the rodent thought the car was an old trap.

THE TINYMITES

BY HAL COCHRAN

When morning came the Tinymites awoke to see the seaway sights. Their boat was drifting slowly on and bobbing on the foam. Said Scouty, as he looked about, "At last I haven't any doubt that sailors really mean it when they say they love to roam."

Then Clowny said, "I feel in trim to shed my clothes and take a swim. I'm really rather groggy and I need some exercise. 'Twould do us all some good, I guess," and then he started to undress, and all the others figured, after all, that he was wise.

So, in they splattered, one by one to have a heap of real good fun. They'd drifted 'way from far up north, and yet the set was cold. Wee Copy yelled, "Oh, let's play tag. Whenever we let movements lag, we nearly freeze. In fact I think that we are very bold."

They chased each other 'round about until they all grew quite tired.

(The Tinymites desert their boat in the next story.)

SAINT and SINNER

Announcing that she had come to "stay a while"—an assurance which Faith received with mixed emotions—Aunt Hattie Lane arrived with Joy on Thursday afternoon in time to cook supper for the family. That service, at least, was thoroughly appreciated by the worn-out girl.

"Come along to supper now, Jim Lane!" Aunt Hattie commanded briskly, as she appeared in the dining room with a heaped platter of fried chicken. "I wrung the neck of one of my winter fryers and it's fried just the way you like it. Now don't turn down the corners of your mouth at me, Jim Lane!" she ordered sharply, as Jim shuffled gloomily into the room from the living room. "There's a time for everything, and supper time when they're fried chicken ain't one of the times I'd set aside for mourning for a wife that's happier where she is—clean away from all the trouble that this poor family has let itself in for. Joy, can't I ever teach you how to set a table? Dump all the silver on one side of the plate! And for heaven's sake, comb that stringy hair of yours. When I get around to it, I've got to give you a haircut. Look like a shaggy Irish terrier, you do. Come along, Faith. I guess there's plenty of this chicken for your young man, too."

"Sounds like home," Faith smiled.

At Bob, as they rose from the couch in the living room and obeyed Aunt Hattie's instructions to "draw up a chair and set."

"It's mighty sweet of you to go to all this trouble for us, Aunt Hattie," she told her acid-mouthed, kind-hearted aunt when the sadly reduced family was seated around the table. "Hot biscuits; chicken gravy, green peas, mashed potatoes and celery hash. And I do believe I'm hungry. Junior, you must eat, dear. It makes me feel dreadful to see you looking so pale and haggard."

"I—I was just thinking that Aunt Hattie had fixed up Mother's favorite dinner, and—"

"Now, you dry up, Junior!" Aunt Hattie commanded sharply. "Eat your grub! Them as is living has got to eat to live, and all the starving back the dead. I'm going to fix up a basket of this supper and send you over to the—the jail with it. Now eat hearty, boy's your finished man."

"They were all 'eating hearty,'" their appetites whipped up as much by Aunt Hattie's sharp tongue as by the appetizing odors and appearance of the food, when the phone bell rang.

"It's for you, Bob," Faith called from the hallway. "It's Churchill. Hurry, dear."

She stood beside him as he answered. "Yeah—yeah. Of course, Churchill, I don't care how risky it seems. Yeah, I have a key, fortunately. Uncle Ralph used to use me as a sort of messenger boy when he wanted things out of his office at night. If it's there I'll get it."

"What is it, Bob?" Faith whispered, her eyes shining with hope for the first time in days.

"Churchill has been to see Cherry," Bob told her in a low voice. "He asked her if she remembered anything in his correspondence that would indicate an enemy—threats or anything like that. She did, thank God, and I'm going over to ransack the letter files. Unfortunately, she doesn't remember the name of the writer of a threatening letter, but Churchill repeated as much of its contents to me as he could remember. Her only recollection is that the chap's name began with a C—and of course she may be wrong about that. Uncle Ralph's filing system is the delectable kind, so it may take me a long time to go through the C's, but I'll get in touch with you as soon as possible."

New York, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Henry Ford's refusal of $1,000,000,000 for his automobile business was regarded in financial circles today as further evidence of his antipathy to Wall St.

Testimony of Ford's refusal of the billion dollar offer was given by John M. Prentiss at a hearing in Washington yesterday in the governments $20,000,000 tax suit against former minority stock holders of the Ford Company. The offer was refused three times, the last refusal being a month ago.

Wall Street circles recalled that even in the "deflation" of 1921 when Mr. Ford was pinched for cash, he declined assistance from New York bankers. At that time there was a veritable procession of bankers to him. One of them was handed his hat, the story goes.

Henry Ford has been a big lender of call money in Wall Street through banks in which he deposits, but there is no record of purchases or sales by him through the stock exchange. Edsel Ford at times has been credited with being a large buyer of Hudson Motors.

"My company will never go to Wall Street," Henry Ford, has said.

"It's for you, Bob," Faith called from the hallway. "It's Churchill. Hurry, dear."

She stood beside him as he answered. "Yeah—yeah. Of course, Churchill, I don't care how risky it seems. Yeah, I have a key, fortunately. Uncle Ralph used to use me as a sort of messenger boy when he wanted things out of his office at night. If it's there I'll get it."

"What is it, Bob?" Faith whispered, her eyes shining with hope for the first time in days.

"Churchill has been to see Cherry," Bob told her in a low voice. "He asked her if she remembered anything in his correspondence that would indicate an enemy—threats or anything like that. She did, thank God, and I'm going over to ransack the letter files. Unfortunately, she doesn't remember the name of the writer of a threatening letter, but Churchill repeated as much of its contents to me as he could remember. Her only recollection is that the chap's name began with a C—and of course she may be wrong about that. Uncle Ralph's filing system is the delectable kind, so it may take me a long time to go through the C's, but I'll get in touch with you as soon as possible."

FORD ANTIPATHY TO WALL STREET SEEN IN ACTION

Refusal of Big Offer for Company Shows Independence

New York, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Henry Ford's refusal of $1,000,000,000 for his automobile business was regarded in financial circles today as further evidence of his antipathy to Wall St.

Testimony of Ford's refusal of the billion dollar offer was given by John M. Prentiss at a hearing in Washington yesterday in the governments $20,000,000 tax suit against former minority stock holders of the Ford Company. The offer was refused three times, the last refusal being a month ago.

Wall Street circles recalled that even in the "deflation" of 1921 when Mr. Ford was pinched for cash, he declined assistance from New York bankers. At that time there was a veritable procession of bankers to him. One of them was handed his hat, the story goes.

Henry Ford has been a big lender of call money in Wall Street through banks in which he deposits, but there is no record of purchases or sales by him through the stock exchange. Edsel Ford at times has been credited with being a large buyer of Hudson Motors.

"My company will never go to Wall Street," Henry Ford, has said.

FIVE NEW PILOTS WILL BE SEEN IN AMERICAN LEAGUE

Johnson Given "Rest"
at End of Greatest League Upheaval

Chicago, Feb. 4.—(AP)—The greatest upheaval in the 27 years existence of the American League swept through the organization this winter. Ban Johnson, patriarch of the league, was placed "on leave" to recover his health, and the executive authority turned over to Frank Navin, league vice president and owner of the Detroit club.

Johnson's retirement was the climax to the downfall of a procession of club managers unprecedented in major league history. Five new pilots will be at the helm this year, the only holdovers being Connie Mack of the Athletics, Miller Huggins with Washington and Buck Harris with the Yankees.

Torn by a series of scandals all winter, the club owners finally managed to end the discord and then turned to bid against each other for the services of Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker, storm centers of one of the chief disputes of the league season. Speaker finally chose to sign with Washington. Cobb is still dickered, with the St. Louis Browns apparently having the inside track.

Five New Managers

The places they vacated as managers at Detroit, Cleveland and Boston were filled by George Moriarty and Jack McAllister. Dan Howley succeeded George Sisler as manager of the St. Louis Browns. Bill Carrigan, who led the Boston Red Sox to their series of successes ten years ago, was persuaded to come back, and get them out of the cellar. Eddie Collins gave up management of the White Sox to return to his first leader, Connie Mack; and Ray Schalk, premier backstop of the American League was named manager. In the first American League trade in many years the White Sox obtained Aaron Ward to fill the second base vacancy and Detroit got Marty McManus, the Browns' shortstop.

Outside these few outstanding deals, the winter player market was largely a matter of changing trading material or untied players. The pennant winning Yankees got some pitch ing talent for their excess infielder Ward, and St. Louis got a southpaw and two likely infielders for their shortstop.

Dixon Facing Hard Game Tomorrow Eve Against Rock Falls

The Dixon high school basketball team plays but one game this week end, a meeting at Rock Falls tomorrow night, when both heavy and light weight squads will clash. Reports from Rock Falls are to the effect that the players and fans of that place will make a determined effort to stop Dixon's winning streak, which stands at six straight and no defeats, gives them undisputed lead of the conference race at present. A large number of fans will accompany the team for tomorrow's game. There is no game this evening because of the ice club opera at the local high school.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Aged Veteran of Civil War Took His Own Life

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Mental disorder was given by coroner Ernest Dye, today as the reason Fred Summers, 82, veteran of the Civil War killed himself late yesterday. The aged man, left alone in his home, tied a rope to the top rail of a stairs banister, fastened the other end around his neck and jumped. He had tried once before to take his own life.

Potato Planters Told of Big Crop Indication

Chicago, Feb. 3.—(AP)—New official cautions against excessive speeding are out. A bulletin from the government bureau of agricultural economics today warns potato planters not to be speed demons.
Reports from many sections, the bulletin says, indicate a possible increase of 13 percent in the 1927 potato acreage. Such a speeding up of planting, it is pointed out, may result in a 400,000,000 bushel crop and abnormal low prices for growers.

Florida and Texas are at present leading the potato race.

Bodies of Twins in Shoe Box Found in Sterling Yesterday

Sterling—Officers are investigating the finding of the fetus of twins, of perhaps five or six months development. The fetus had been placed in a pasteboard shoe-box that was pushed beneath an approach at the southeast corner of West Eighth street and Avenue C.

Upon his arrival there he found the pasteboard box pushed under the approach. It had previously been removed by some youngsters on their way home from school and a party residing nearby noticed the commotion, investigated and notified the police.

It is hardly probable that the box and contents were placed there earlier than Tuesday night, as the condition of the pasteboard box would indicate.

Officer Ben Reel received a call to go at once to the above location and

NEWS of the CHURCHES

Good Thoughts for Good People

Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you. For every one that asketh, receiveth; and he that seeketh, findeth; and to him that knocketh, it shall be opened. For whosoever will, he may take of the water of life freely. —Matthew.

Riches take wings, comforts vanish, but love stays, and love stays with us. Love is of God. —Lew Wallace.

Love is more than justice. —Henry Ward Beecher.

His heart was a great as the world, but there was no room in it to hold the memory of a wrong. —Emerson.

Pardon ever follows sincere repentance. —Spurgeon.

What is the purpose of the Master's parable of the prodigal son, if not to rouse each one to the great fact of divine love, that "thinketh no evil," and is therefore able to cleanse from all unrighteousness? Enslaved while he was being disilluminated, and then softened by his sufferings, the prodigal, who is but the type of every self-indulgent mortal, felt himself spiritually famished and turning his thought toward his father, who typified divine love, he found himself walking in the bright light of love again. —The Christian Science Monitor.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH, AMBOY
Rev. Clarence F. Kerr, Minister.
9:45 A. M.—Graded Sunday school. Clayton W. Rockwood, Superintendent. What right have we to expect innumerable blessings in our lives, unless we are willing to show reverence and obedience to God? Does not our very unwillingness to honor God account for much of the spiritual poverty of our lives? Why are we paupers when we are the children of our loving heavenly Father? Consider well the statement: He that honoreth me, I will honor. If we are regular, faithful and sincere in our worship, we will surely honor and bless us.

6:30 P. M.—B. Y. P. U. The discussion of the topic, "The Conquering Christ" will be conducted by Rev. Kerr.

Rescinds Rules Barring Married School Teacher
Springfield, Ill., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Rescinding its former action, the Springfield public school board adopted a motion last night to re-employ married women teachers at its own discretion.

A year ago the board adopted a rule excluding married women from the profession beginning with the 1927-28 school year.

CHILDREN'S NIGHT COUGHS
Stopped Almost Instantly
Children very frequently have spells of night coughing due to bronchial irritations or while suffering from colds. These coughing spells, if not quickly checked, are very injurious to the child's health, to say nothing of the annoyance to others.

A famous physician's prescription called Thoxine much better than patent medicines and cough syrups acts on a different principle, relieves the irritation and stops the cough in a few minutes. In fact, it is guaranteed to stop night coughs or sore throat within 15 minutes or money back. Contains no chloroform, dope or other harmful drugs, pleasant taste and safe, 35c., 60c. and $1.00. THE BLACK DIAMOND EXPRESS

By Darryl Francis Zanuck

Copyright by Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
"The Black Diamond Express," starring Monte Blue, is Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS
John Ballard, rising from poverty to District Attorney, loved Viola Ruskin, but through curious mischance she married Phil Hardin, his old chum, now President of a powerful railroad, and a tool in the hands of Jordan, money king. A grave wreck occurs, and when John grimly works to send all responsible officials to jail, Phil reveals to Jordan a college brawl in which John killed a man to protect him. Jordan thinks this the club he needs over John. He makes Phil promise to "string" it. Phil, talking to his wife, learns she loves John.

"Ballard was the man you were in love with before we married," Phil said.

"You—you're not right—but what if he was?" Viola wouldn't lie.
"Plenty of it, I think," he said. He was wonderfully braced by his discovery. If—why, this put a different complexion upon all he was doing. Being what he was, having, all his life, dealt with what he thought of as love as he had, he was sure that Viola and Ballard had met—had carried on their old affair. "This paragon's been your lover!"

"That is a very cruel and stupid lie," said Viola, with quiet and biting scorn. "John Ballard has never been to see me—I have never met him, except by accident, and before other people, since you and I were married."
"A likely story!" said Phil. "Do you expect me to believe that? Good Lord—do you think I care?" That was torn from him by his jealous rage. It was inconceivable to him that any woman could prefer another man to him; he had, for the sake of his own pride, to deprecate what he had lost. What, rather, he was so sure he had lost. "You were free—I told you so, over and over, when we were first married. I did as I pleased—why shouldn't you?"

"I did. But I didn't please to do the sort of thing you did," she said, quietly. "Phil—for your own sake, get this crazy idea out of your mind. There has never been anything between John Ballard and myself."
"You didn't deny that he was the man you loved before our marriage?"
"No. I didn't. And I don't. It is true. He was."
"Well, then?"
"Let me finish. He never told me he loved me. I think he did."
"So do I! I know it! Ha!"
"I think he did," she went on. "But that for reasons, wholly to his credit, that you could never understand, that I couldn't hope to make you understand, he never told me so. I will say this to you now. If I had known in those days, as a young girl, as much as I know now, as a grown woman, I would have gone to him, and told him I loved him, and asked him if he loved me. And if he had said he did I would have offered to wait for him if it had meant waiting all my life."

For a moment Phil was awed and silenced, as much by the gravity of her manner as by her words. But then his jealousy mastered him again. He believed her. But he would not admit it. He was more jealous, indeed, of this lofty love she was confessing than he would have been of some intrigue comparable to his own; he had never inspired a feeling like this in the heart of any woman, and he knew it well.
"That's all very well to say," he sneered. "I'd like to know what chance you'd have of making a jury believe it if I choose to sue you for divorce?"
She laughed at his face; she was not even angry.
"Don't stand there talking nonsense, Phil," she said. "You'd never sue me for divorce, and you'd be laughed out of court if you did."
"Well, your pattern of a Galahad is trying to make all the trouble he can for me now!" he said, viciously. "I suppose he thinks that may help him with you. Do you know what he wants to do—put me in jail?"

"I don't believe it," she said. "He may feel that he must, but that he wants to I'll never believe. John Ballard is loyal to his friends, and he regards you as an old friend."
"You talk the way he does—but what do you make of this?" And he told her of the talk he had had with John that morning.
"He's right," said Viola. "Phil—can't you see that this may be your last chance to redeem your manhood? Oh, Phil—he's not trying to hurt you—he's giving you a great opportunity, because he is your friend. Phil—do what he says. Confess that you've been wrong—do what you can to make amends—"

"Go! Go!—do you think I don't want to?" For once, in his agony and fear, Phil was honest. "But what do you think Jordan would be doing? I'm helpless—I'm only a figurehead."
"You're not helpless. You're president of the railway. Maybe Jordan can put you out—but until he does you're president, and the road is bound by what you do and say. Make such a statement as John wants you to make and there is nothing Jordan can do."
"That's all you know. He can smash me. I tell you, you don't know that man's power. Neither does Ballard. He's going to smash Ballard."
"He can't," said Viola, proudly. "John is not in his power, even if you are. He never will be."
"That's all you know," said Phil again. "He's got Ballard where he wants him. Unless Ballard stops the whole thing Jordan will smash him the way he smashes an egg shell."

Something about his sombre manner, the gloom in his voice, terrified Viola. She knew that he spoke, or thought, at least, that he was speaking, the truth.
"Phil!" she said. "What do you mean? What possible hold can Jordan have on John Ballard?"
"You'd like to know, wouldn't you?" he said, suddenly sly again. "You'd like me to tell you, so that you could run to your lover and tell him?"
"Phil—don't insult me again. You know you are lying when you call John Ballard that. Phil—for your own sake, for whatever of manhood there is left in you, tell me—what hold is this that Jordan has on John Ballard?"
"Oh, he's got him, all right. Something he did a long time ago. Something we both mixed up in."

"I don't believe it!"
"Oh, it's true, all right. I know. I tell you I was there. I'll tell you, if you like. I'm going to tell him. I don't care how soon he knows it."
And, recklessly, stung by her repeated taunt that he was lying, he told her the tale of that summer night in the gambling dive outside the college town.
"So—" she said. "He saved your life—and you're going to reward him now by threatening to publish what he did? You—oh, you unutterable beast—you impossible little cad!"
"Here—" he said, suddenly sobered. "Don't talk to me like that. I'm your husband, after all. By God, there are some things I won't stand for!"
"Are there?" she asked, bitter in her scorn.
"You don't understand. What could I do? Jordan got it out of me. There'll be no harm done if Ballard's sensible. No one wants to hurt him. Jordan doesn't want to make any trouble for him. I just want to stop him from making trouble for us."
"Yes," she said. "Oh, my God—what a crew you are! You murder those poor souls last night—you want to be free to go on murdering others! You've no conscience. You're moved by nothing but your selfishness and greed! But it will do you no good!"
"It will do you no good," she said, again. "Go to John Ballard. I know what he will say to you. He is a man. I'm not afraid for him. He will come through with his honor and his manhood untouched. You needn't be afraid of me. I shan't lift a finger or say a word to warn John Ballard. There is no need."

CHAPTER X
In a way, it seemed to Phil Hardin, the scene he had passed through with Viola had braced him, done him good, made him better able to cope with John Ballard. It was characteristic of Phil, a small, weak man, that he had come, in the course of that searing talk with his wife, to hate John Ballard. He knew, now, if he had ever had reason to doubt it, how contemptible a figure he appeared in Viola's eyes; he knew how he stood, with her, beside Ballard. And the knowledge maddened him; enraged him; filled him with hatred of the man who had won from his wife what he had never been able to gain—her respect as well as her love.

Illinois Man is Taken to Prison Under Guard
Cedar Rapids, Ia., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Disclosures today that Eddie Hurd, alias Eddie Anderson, bandit, wounded here by police on the night of Jan. 22, just after he had held up a store, was a former resident of Johnson City, Ill., caused him to be taken to the Anamosa reformatory under a heavy guard. Police explained that Johnson City was so close to the Her-ryn feud district that they feared an effort might be made by Anderson's friends to rescue him. Anderson has lived at Tulsa, Okla., and was sent to prison from there on a charge of robbery. He was wounded in a lung here during a battle with police. His condition may confine him in the reformatory hospital for two or three weeks, police said.

Two Alleged Chicken Thieves are Captured
Freeport, Ill., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Wanted at Darlington, Wis., to answer to charges of chicken stealing and other robberies, "Sweet" Whalen, 21, Arzyle, Wis., and Harlow Rowe, 22, Vermont, Wis., were arrested Wednesday by Green County, Wisconsin and Stephenson County, Illinois officials after a posse had surrounded a farm house in the attic of which the men had hid-

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Death strikes GARRETT FOLSON while bathing with a party at Ocean Town, N. J. At the Hotel Majanosa, where they had been guests, an inquiry is begun, after a doctor, perfunctorily examining him on the beach, pronounces him dead.

Folson's companions had been ROGER NEVILLE, MRS. HELEN BARNABY and CARMELITA VALDON. It is established that Folson, just before his death, had been standing next to NED BARRON, known as the copper king.

Folson's sister, ANASTASIA, is sent for in New York. Then the startling announcement is made that Folson had been stabbed to death in the water. ROSS, his valet, is questioned, as are Barron and his wife, but no light is shed on the mystery.

Anastasia arrives and encounters Neville, who had been her brother's associate in business.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XI

"MISS FOLSON," Neville cried. "Why are you here?"

Haven't you got a room yet? Come, you can go to Mrs. Valdon's apartments. You mustn't stay here."

"Why not? Why does everybody want me to hide? I am here to investigate my brother's death. And remember, Roger Neville, I know as yet none of the details. I had only the telegram that Garrett was dead. Then I come here and I find his rooms are in the charge of the police! I sent for Ross, but before I could ask him about it all you came. I had no wish to ask the hotel people, so perhaps you will tell me the facts."

"Of course, dear Miss Folson, but not here, I beg of you! See," he spoke low, "see, many are already clustering around us. They pretend to be talking among themselves, but you can see they are greedily listening."

Anastasia Folson raised her head high and gave the curious onlookers a stare.

"You are right, Roger," she said. "I was a fool to stay here as long as I have. Let Paxton and Ross bring my things and take me anywhere, anywhere that we can talk."

Relieved at her docility, Neville led her quickly through the throngs to the elevator and took her to the suite occupied by Mrs. Valdon and Mrs. Barnaby.

The arrival was not unexpected, for Neville had gone in search of Anastasia with orders to bring her back with him.

"You poor dear thing!" cried Carmelita as she opened the door. "Come right in and let me take care of you."

"I'm not the kind to be taken care of," was the response, but the tone was independent rather than ungrateful. "Who is this?"

It was a strange thing, but the speeches of Anastasia Folson, though often rude of words, were accompanied by a smile of good nature that seemed to take away their sting. Her glance at the Duchess was one of admiration, though her question was brusque.

"This is my dear friend, Mrs. Barnaby," Carmelita introduced. "Usually called the Duchess, because of her—"

"Her noble air and bearing," interrupted Miss Folson, holding

"Who did it?" she repeated. "Roger, who murdered my brother?"

out her hand. "I like you, Duchess, you're so right."

"Goody!" and Helen Barnaby smiled one of her wide, vapid smiles. "It's so nice to be liked."

"Well, that's that," and Miss Folson turned from the Duchess as if entirely through with her.

"Now, Carmelita Valdon, tell me all there is to tell about Garrett's death. Roger, you can speak when I speak to you, but I want Carmy to tell the story."

She pulled off her hat and flung it across the room, where Paxton picked it up and poked it back into shape.

"And you stay, too, Ross," Miss Folson went on, as she held out her hand to Paxton and received a cigarette. "Stay, at any rate, until I hear the main facts."

"Yes, ma'am," Ross said, and stood at attention.

Then Mrs. Valdon gave a straightforward and concise account of the death of Garrett Folson. She told all there was to tell of his bath in the ocean with them, of his sudden sinking beneath the waves, of his being carried to shore by two of the life guards, accompanied or assisted by several men who chanced to be near.

She told how they had all assumed that death was due to natural causes, until informed by Doctor Manning that it was not, but was the result of a murderous attack.

"Who did it?" cried Miss Anastasia.

"Where were you at the time of his death?"

"In Mr. Folson's rooms, waiting for his return."

"Then you can't be suspected! So you can help me in my investigations. I will keep you on, for the present, Ross. You will be useful here and after we go back home. You may go, now, and hold yourself at my orders."

"Yes, Miss Folson," and Ross departed.

"Who did it?" cried Miss Anastasia.

"Where were you at the time of his death?"

"In Mr. Folson's rooms, waiting for his return."

"Then you can't be suspected! So you can help me in my investigations. I will keep you on, for the present, Ross. You will be useful here and after we go back home. You may go, now, and hold yourself at my orders."

"Yes, Miss Folson," and Ross departed.

"Who did it?" cried Miss Anastasia.

"Where were you at the time of his death?"

"In Mr. Folson's rooms, waiting for his return."

"Then you can't be suspected! So you can help me in my investigations. I will keep you on, for the present, Ross. You will be useful here and after we go back home. You may go, now, and hold yourself at my orders."

"Yes, Miss Folson," and Ross departed.

"Who did it?" cried Miss Anastasia.

"Then you can't be suspected! So you can help me in my investigations. I will keep you on, for the present, Ross. You will be useful here and after we go back home. You may go, now, and hold yourself at my orders."

"Yes, Miss Folson," and Ross departed.

"Who did it?" cried Miss Anastasia.

"Where were you at the time of his death?"

"I'm glad to have him," she said. "he is dependable and capable in every way. Now tell me more. Who was nearest my brother when he—when he fell over?"

"Our own crowd," Neville told her, "and several strangers."

"Your own crowd being?"

"These two ladies and myself," he said.

"Well, I don't suspect any of you," but the hawk-like eyes rested sternly on them all in turn. "Who were the strangers? Do you know?"

"Some of them. Next to Garrett there stood a man named Barron, a chap from New York."

"Barron? Know anything about him?"

"Nothing at all. It seems Garry talked to him, just casually you know, as lots of people do, in the ocean. But he wasn't at all responsive, and gave Garry rather the cold shoulder."

"Then, if he was an utter stranger, we can scarcely suspect him."

"No, but Anastasia, you can't suspect anybody yet. It's all in the hands of the police—"

"Indeed it isn't!

RUMORS OF MERGER OF SEVERAL ROADS HEARD IN WALL ST.

Renewed Activity Seen in Trading in Rails During the Day

New York, Feb. 3—(AP)—Rumors of impending railroad mergers held the attention of Wall Street today as renewed activity was noted in rail stocks.

Reports that the Baltimore & Ohio had contracted to purchase all or part of the Rockefeller holdings in the Western Maryland and the Wheeling and Lake Erie were revived as Wall Street sought an explanation for the advances in stocks of the last two roads.

Reports from St. Paul that the Minneapolis & St. Louis Railroad would be included in a new merger providing a first direct line rail connection between St. Paul and the east also attracted attention.

The reported agreement between the Baltimore & Ohio and the Rockefeller interests is said to have been made in the interest of another road. Both the Rockefeller office and G. M. Schriver, vice president of the Baltimore & Ohio refused to discuss the rumors.

Trading in Wheeling & Lake Erie and Western Maryland has been heavy lately with prices going up.

Reports from St. Paul linked the Minneapolis & St. Louis in a prospective merger with the Delaware & Hudson, the Wabash and the Western Maryland.

About $60,000 in cash and negotiable inclosures, received annually in the dead letter office, goes into the hands of the officer. Each successful claimant for advertised unclaimed letters is assessed one penny.

Abduction and Sale of Negro Family, Dept.
Agents Charge

New Orleans, La., Feb. 3—(AP)—Black slavery, comparable to that which existed "down the river" in ante-bellum times, was the object of an extended investigation today by department of justice agents.

The indictment yesterday of Webb Bellue and John D. Alford, of Amite county, Mississippi, on charges of abduction, sale and enslavement of five negroes is to be followed by disclosure of peonage in St. Helena and Tangipahoa parishes in Louisiana. It evinces now in the hands of the United States district attorney here proves substantial officials said.

Alford and Webb, were indicted on testimony that they forced Crawford Allen, his wife and three children, all under 12 years of age, to accompany them. The family was sold for $20. Department of Justice agents charge, and was forced to work several weeks without pay and with little food.

Each picture will represent typical life and scenery of a geological period. Mighty dinosaurs, three-toed horses, American camels, flying lizards, coral reefs that once surrounded Chicago

Modeled groups will relate chiefly to the earlier geological periods, but some later representations will be included.
